

COUNTWAY LONGWOOD AUTHOR SERIES

Visit www.countway.harvard.edu for more details

Stephanie E. Mohr, Lecturer on Genetics Harvard Medical School

The fruit fly Drosophila melanogaster been used in biological research studies for more than 100 years. Why? Join us as Stephanie Mohr explains how genetic commonalities in fruit flies and humans can help us understand human health. Q & A to follow.

MONDAY
JUNE 18, 2018

5:30 - 7:00 PM

Countway Library,
Minot Room

Light Refreshments Provided

First in Fly: Drosophila Research and Biological Discovery available to purchase on-site thanks to the Harvard Coop

Countway Library of Medicine

An Alliance of the Harvard Medical School and Boston Medical Library

THE COOP

hms | hsdm

office for postdoctoral fellows